

We are a NEW kind of ‘tutor.’ Research shows that children complete 90% of their brain development by the age of 7. Why wait until they’re 5 to start helping them learn? At Intellakids, we believe that we shouldn’t waste this critical period of learning and development. That’s why we teach children as young as 2.5 in the comfort of their own home through one-on-one, play-based teaching sessions.

Founder Aysen Fehime Dogan’s passion for child development showed her first-hand that young children are capable of learning anything when approached with the right method. Through creating lesson plans full of toys, games, and activities that are individualized for each child, they gain a positive experience with learning. For her, the best part of the job is connecting with young children on a personal level and guiding them to achieve their full potential. The goal is to help them build self-confidence, see their beauty, self-worth, unique talents in themselves, and to understand that learning can be fun.

The future of Intellakids is exciting. They are seeking out talented educators to join their team and eventually expand their services beyond Houston. Aysen recently launched her new educational toy brand, Tomazetoys, which will be available on Amazon.com.

Follow them on Instagram @INTELLAKIDS and @TOMAZETOYS to join their growing community of parents and educators. They share tips, DIYs, and more on early childhood education.

“The greatest reward is seeing a child’s confidence and self-esteem blossom, as they transform from “I can’t do it” to “I am capable and I can learn anything.”